Overview of the seasonal employment in Auvergne-Rhônes Alpes region

Population density in French mountains

Employment in mountainous areas often highlights the unique characteristics and economic activities associated with such regions. They often have valuable natural resources, such as timber and minerals which create employment opportunities in extraction and processing industries. Additionally, outdoor recreation and adventure tourism contribute to jobs in guiding, hospitality, and equipment rental.

In these highly touristic areas in high mountainous landscape, catering and lodging which represent more than half of the seasonal employment as well as businesses and ski lifts are the sectors that offer the most seasonal jobs. Seasonal employment usually starts in December and ends in April for the winter. During the summer they usually start around mid-June to the end of August where the vacations end.
